Intl. Firestop Council Website Features Comprehensive Information

Westford, MA-based Intl. Firestop Council (IFC) has unveiled its new website (www.firestop.org), a central resource for firestopping history, as well as information on the association's education and training opportunities, IFC publications, and videos. The enhanced site features online training modules and comprehensive industry information such as updates on codes, and inspection and installation guidelines.

"Our goal in redesigning [the website] was to create a site that would provide architects, code and building officials, and fire professionals a one-stop location for information on firestopping," explains Steven M. Tyler, president, IFC. "The enhanced website is part of our larger mission to serve as an educational and authoritative resource on firestopping."
